

Consent Form for Two Pet Boarding

Problems:

- Confined to small living space- Personalities tend to change when in a new environment with new people.
- Can become nervous with so many other "Stranger" animals all around them.
- Pets do not always get along when being confined to smaller than used to living space.
- If on different diets, feeding separately is an issue. Also, because of the close environment, feeding time tends to be competitive time.

Be aware that if need arises and we have to separate your pets during their stay, there may be a change in the boarding rate per pet.

I the undersigned do hereby certify that I have been advised of the problems that come with boarding two pets together and would still prefer that my pets be boarded together.
